

Dr. Natalie Geary Private Pediatric Consulting, LLC

Dr. Natalie Geary is an integrative pediatrician, trained in both western and complementary medicine. She is a graduate of Harvard University where she majored in medical anthropology and studied Ayurvedic medicine in Mumbai. She received her MD from Johns Hopkins School of Medicine and completed her residency in Pediatrics at New York University/Bellevue Hospital. She then joined NYU's premier private pediatric practice before moving to Santa Fe with her family.

In Santa Fe, Dr. Geary not only worked in a large pediatric practice but also founded a non-profit organization, Mobile Pediatrics, dedicated to children in need. In Santa Fe, Dr. Geary was able to pursue her studies in Ayurvedic medicine and begin to incorporate treatments into an integrative medical practice. During this time she also worked in Africa, India, and Indonesia promoting children's health.

Dr. Geary returned to New York and opened her own private practice in 2000. She is a Fellow of the American Academy of Pediatrics and sits on the Committees of International Health, Child Abuse and Neglect, and Adolescent Health. She is on the Health Committee of the International Rescue Committee, the Children's AID Society and holds academic positions at NYU, Columbia and Mt. Sinai Hospitals in New York.

Her private practice, Private Pediatric Consulting, LLC. Is the only integrative pediatric practice in Manhattan. She combines traditional pediatric care, nutrition, allergy and immunology research with wellness work. She is the Founder of vedaPURE™, a natural skincare line for families and works closely with her patients to enhance their overall well-being. Dr. Geary lectures and writes extensively for both schools and the media, and is the founder of a parenting website www.modernmums.com.
